The DEANS of Gainsboro Township

by
Cecelia and Roland Eotting
John Dean and his family were among the pioneer settlers of Lincoln County, and through the years his descendants have contributed actively to the welfare and progress of their communities; yet they have been given little attention by family historians. The present collection of data is intended in some degree to remedy this deficiency. We realize that it is woefully incomplete and probably, now and then, inaccurate. Both conditions are inherent in the circumstances under which it was assembled — mainly incidentally to other genealogical work. It derives somewhat from personal knowledge, somewhat from information collected by correspondence, somewhat from a few published sources, and far less than it should from research in primary sources. Many original sources — censuses, cemetery records, land records, wills, mortuary records, tax lists, etc., etc. — were available to us only in a limited degree. Even so, it may be a helpful beginning for a later, more complete genealogy of the Deans. Such we hope that it will prove.

A further remark or two — In the course of our work we have found Deans in the area whom we have been unable to place in the family as we have organized it; most of them are noted in Appendix III. And — we have found it convenient to abbreviate references to certain sources as follows:

AF — Powell, Annals of the Forty
CFA — Botting, Comfort Families of America
Cl — T. H. Snyder, The Snyder Clan
DJK — Botting, Descendants of John Kennedy

(This account of the razing of the mill built by Andrew Dean (p. 15) appeared in the St. Catharines Standard on 1 Sept 1948.)

Part of the mill, in the words of the inscriptive tablet which held an honored place over the main doorway up until late 1947, has been transferred to the Tintern United Church, where Andrew Dean was a generous member.

The inscription on the marble tablet reads: "A.D. 1857, This mill erected by Andrew Dean for the good of man, and he consecrates a tenth of all the proceeds to the support of spreading the Gospel of Christ on Earth." And Andrew Dean, throughout his entire life, lived up to the very tenets of the inscription, doing good not only with the money which he gave to the church, but in the example of thrift and good living which he set in his everyday life.

On the site of the mill, two miles south-east of Campden, a cairn is to be erected of some of the field stones used in its construction, and a granite slab will carry a descriptive story.

With a trimmed stone front and corners, the other walls of the mill, which towers five stories from the creek bed, were made entirely of flat field stones, expertly laid of a mortar made of lime and clay. In those far-off days cement was unknown, but the quality of the builder’s art which went into its construction has been very evident in the manner in which the mill withstood the elements for nearly a century. The walls are as true as any modern building.

It was said that, when Mr. Dean had completed the mill, he was heavily in debt, with carrying charges on his loan amounting to $9 a day. Very few thought that he would be able to make a success of such a big enterprise, but they reckoned without the ability and energy of the hardy miller. Nothing but the finest equipment available had been used. Six mill stones, each costing $440 were imported from France, and huge timbers, nearly 18 inches square, were under every floor.

A big dam, 20 feet high, backed the waters of the Twenty Creek up nearly to Tintern, over two miles away, and the backlog of water provided the power to run the heavy millstones. Day after day, and many times far into the night, the sound of the turning wheels could be heard.

In those days, the practice was to take every tenth bushel of grain in lieu of hard cash, and Andrew Dean soon worked up a flourishing business, selling his flour and chop over an ever-widening territory. Stone flour, regarded by many as the healthiest ingredient for bread, and one of the most tasty, was ground at the mill, and nearby residents still recall with nostalgia the long-remembered taste of the bread and rolls made from it.

A family man, Mr. Dean had 18 children, five by his first wife and thirteen by his second. Today only one is living, Mrs. Charles High (Sarah) of St. Catherines. But there are grandchildren, and one of these, the former Edna Eckhardt, is now Mrs. Charles Spiece. They own the mill property, having inherited it from Mrs. Spiece's father, who bought it from Mrs. Dean after the sturdy miller had passed along.

Mr. Dean died in 1888 after a long and eventful life. His wife leased the mill to several operators for a period of twelve years, and Samuel Spiece bought it and ran it until 1912. But the streams were drying up, and steam had had to be installed for low-water periods. In time, it became too expensive to operate, and, while Charlie Spiece did investigate the possibility of putting in electricity, it was too costly, and the mill remained silent.

For a quarter of a century, it lay idle, and, with such good timber and material in it, the decision was made to sell them. The timbers and much of the floor planking went into a house built nearby by Henry Schinkle, and Mr. Schinkle also secured the rights to the stone and has sold it to a contractor for use in building a house at Vineland. So the mill, while not in its original form, will still continue to be a part of the daily lives of these two families. . . .
Much of what we know of the Flacks was learned from Jacob Divers Flack's The Flacks: Ancestry, Genealogy, and History (Hackettstown Gazette Publishing Co., 1938); he cites as a source Theodore F. Chambers.

I. Andreas Flack (1712 - 1779)
He was b. at Wurtemberg, Germany. He, Anna Maria, and their four older children came to N. J. (1749) on the Speedwell. They settled at Long Valley, Morris Co.; Andreas there changed the spelling of the family name to Flack. He and his son Matthias bought 600 A. of land in Washington Twp., Morris Co. He moved from Long Valley to Schooley's Mountain, where he d.; he is bd. at Long Valley.

Mrs. Charles Spiece and Frank Hansel both named her as a sister of Margaret (below). She is said to have been b. while the family was on its way to America. She is bd. in Beaver Dam Cem. Jacob Flack does not mention Mary; perhaps she was identical with Christina (below).
m. Andrew HANSEL (1747 - 1818), in N. J. The identity of his and Mary's birth and death dates is suspicious. The Hansels, Hans and his wife Mary, came to N. J. from Gotha, Saxony. A son Andrew was b. at sea; he is said to have had sons John, Andrew, and James.

After they came to Canada in c1816, they l. for a time in Grimsby Twp., Lincoln Co., and then moved to Waterdown, East Flamborough Twp., Wentworth Co. Later (c1843) they moved to a farm in Trafalgar Twp., Halton Co. Of their 10 children, the names of only four are known: (1) Joseph Howard Oakley (bapt. at St. Andrews Ch., Grimsby, on 15 Nov 1818), who when about 18, sailed from New York aboard a whaler, which was wrecked off the California coast; he l. for 13 years in California and then sailed on a British man of war and was killed in the Crimean War; (2) Sylvester Oakley (31 Aug 1833 - 1928), the youngest son, who was b. at Waterdown and bapt. at Oakville; as a lad, he sailed by steamer to Hamilton, stayed there for some years, and finally settled at Grimsby; he m. Elizabeth DE COO (DE CEW?) (1826 - 1905); they l. for many years on Mountain Street and are bd. in Queen's Lawn Cem., Grimsby; (3) Elizabeth Oakley, younger sister of Sylvester, who taught school at Oakville; and (4) Jennie Oakley, a teacher, who m. ______ BELL; they moved to Denver, Colo. See AF, 7. 12.

Grant Dean, a farmer, of Saltfleet Twp., Wentworth Co., and Hannah SINGER, of Clinton Twp., Lincoln Co., were granted a marriage license at Grimsby, on 11 May, ______.

Janette Dean m. William SNYDER, s. of William Henry and Mary (Misner) Snyder. See Cl 3.

John Dean, married, l. at one time on Lot 25, Conc. VI, Gainsboro Twp.
John Dean m. Sarah Celeste SPERNA, dau. of Henry and Sarah (Nash) Spera. See AF 8:66.

John Dean and his wife Ann became members of the St. Anns ch. on 5 June 1842; one source suggests that Ann was Ann MINGLE (1790 - 1856). On 9 Feb 1845, John was dismissed "to unite with the Presbyterion church at Camborough."

John T. Dean was one of the early settlers of Caistor Twp., Lincoln Co.

Perez Dean, who l. on Lot 13, Conc. IV, Clinton Twp., was Poundkeeper for the Clinton Municipal Council in 1821.

Samuel Dean m. Ruth HOWELL on 7 Jan 1802.

Samuel Dean, yeoman, of Saltfleet Twp., Wentworth Co., and Caroline SINGER were granted a marriage license at Grimsby on 20 Dec 1833.

Seth Dean is shown in the 1861 (or 1871?) census of Grimsby Twp., Lincoln Co., as a laborer, ae. 64, along with Catherine, ae. 30, and Georgina, ae. 8.

Silas Dean, who evidently worked some of Robert Comfort's land on shares in 1819 and was employed by him at times until 1835, m. Permelia WHITAKER. Their son Robert Comfort Dean (b. c1823) appears in the 1852 census of Middleton Twp., Norfolk Co., along with Ann (c1825), Isaac (c1846), Merrit (c1847), and Susannah (c1849). Susannah m. David FAULKNER (c1846), s. of John and Margaret Faulkner, on 12 Nov 1870; David was a farmer who was b. and l. (1870) in Middleton Twp.

Stafford Dean, a tanner of Clinton Twp., and Selma HILL, also of Clinton Twp., obtained a marriage license at Grimsby on 10 Jan 1833.

Thomas Allen Dean became a member of the St. Anns ch. on 9 April 1843.

Walter Dean is said to have built the mill (Appendix I) for Andrew Dean (p. 18). In Oct 1882, John Kennedy wrote from the West asking about the whereabouts of Jim and Walter Dean; perhaps they were in the vicinity of St. Anns and were about John's age.

William Dean (b. c1800) appears in the 1861 census of Raleigh Twp., Kent Co., with a household comprising Harriet (c1801), Mary (c1837), Martha (c1847), and David (c1853). All were b. in the United States.
